

Tornado Barrage Hits Six States

At Least 11 Persons Dead; Scores Injured

Tornadoes Touch Down 12 Times in Michigan; Flint Hit

By United Press

The debris of a tornado barrage covered parts of a six-state area today.

At least 11 persons were reported dead in the wake of the weekend weather fury and scores more were injured. Property damage run into the millions of dollars.

Weather officials said a cold front racing across the Midwest apparently was chasing out the threat of more twisters today and dropping temperatures. But the East basked in a muggy heat wave.

The tornado onslaught began on Saturday night, killing six persons on the outskirts of Cleveland, Ohio, three in Flint, Mich., and one at Ithaca, Mich. The Red Cross reported a total of 17 deaths, including two more in Michigan, but authorities said these could not be confirmed.

An 11th weather fatality was recorded when Ronald Saverko, 16, of Boardman, Ohio, was swept into a 30-inch pipe during flooding rains. His body was found nearly a mile away.

More Tornadoes Strike

More tornadoes hit Pennsylvania, causing heavy damage, and near Omaha, Neb., Saturday night and early Sunday. The twisters returned Sunday night, lashing through farm areas in Kansas and Missouri and destroying small planes and a hangar at Menominee, Mich.

The suburban west side of Cleveland felt the twister's most lethal fury. Three persons were killed when a tavern collapsed, two more were electrocuted by live wires from fallen utility poles, and one was crushed to death by a falling tree in his car.

In Michigan, tornadoes touched down at least 12 times and concentrated their fury on Flint, where a twister killed 116 persons three years ago.

A flood threat added to Flint's troubles for a while. But the rain swollen river was falling today, as was the bloated Grand River at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Damages High

The injured list at Flint alone amounted to 136. Damage was conservatively estimated at $1,250,000 and authorities said it might rise to $2 million.

Twisters also danced around Detroit's suburbs. There was more heavy damage in western Pennsylvania, where the twisters hit hardest at the steel city of Duquesne. Although there were no deaths and only one serious injury, damage was estimated at $1 million in the state.

At Duquesne, 75 buildings were seriously damaged and authorities placed the wreckage cost at half a million dollars.

A Chicago couple died when their auto went out of control and flipped end over end near Pontiac Saturday night. They were Leo E. and Beatrice Toland.

Two deaths occurred in separate crashes near Granite City. Hilton L. Shemwell, 17, was killed when his car plunged into a ditch Saturday night. Wayne Pruett, 9, died when the auto he was riding in overturned as its 16-year-old driver was trying to elude police Sunday.

Find Body of Missing Boy in Chicago River

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Police said today that little Leo Rausch Jr., their will-o'-the-wisp quarry for 13 days, met death seeking adventure in the sluggish Chicago River.

The body of the long-sought 8-year-old boy was found Sunday bobbing in the turbid waters of the river's north branch about four miles from his home.

Final conclusions about his fate awaited a coroner's inquest and a scientific examination of the body. But police, along with Leo's grieving parents, felt they already knew the truth.

For almost two weeks, police had believed the precocious boy was playing hide-and-go-seek with them. He ran away from school on April 30 and scores of Chicagoans reported they had seen him later.

But most of the people who thought they saw Leo must have been wrong, police said. Indications are that he wandered to the river's bank perhaps one or two days after his disappearance—perhaps earlier—and embarked on his last adventure.

The most concrete evidence on Leo's possible fate came from a houseboat owner, Philip Posely.

He said that on April 30 a dinghy disappeared and a short time later he saw it drifting down-river with a boy standing in it. He looked again and the boat was empty. The boy was swimming towards shore.

Three men in a pleasure launch sighted Leo's body Sunday. It was dragged to shore and police found he was still carrying his most treasured possession his cap pistol.

There were a few bruises on the small body, but no evidence of foul play.

Amnesia Victim, Who Disappeared from Home April 6, Fails to Recognize Family

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y. (U.P.)—A 31-year-old amnesia victim struggled today to wipe a cloud from his memory which has made his wife and two children complete strangers.

Charles Sletzer, who disappeared from his Hialeah, Fla., home April 6, went with frustration Sunday when he failed to recognize his pretty wife, Florence, 28, and their two children, James, 8, and Barbara, 2.

The children hung back shyly when Sletzer stepped off a plane at Newark, N. J., airport.

"That's daddy," Mrs. Sletzer cried. "I don't know you," Sletzer said to his wife of nine years.

"My name is Bob Downes. What am I doing here anyhow? I've got to get back to my job in New Orleans," Sletzer said.

Close Century Of Methodism Services Here

With surprising vigor and wonderful memory for a man past 90 years of age, the Rev. J. W. Cummins delivered the morning sermon Sunday at the First Methodist church as the church closed its observance of 100 years of continuous service in Harrisburg. The Rev. Cummins, retired for several years from active service is now residing in Texas with a son. He held pastorates in many of the neighboring communities but never in the Harrisburg church.

Sunday morning, there were many old friends in the congregation who greeted him following his sermon. He will be in southern Illinois for several days before returning to Texas.

The Methodist church has enjoyed several events this past week which will be remembered for a long time. On Monday evening the pageant depicting many stages of the organization and growth of the church pleased a large audience.

On Wednesday evening the largest attendance to ever assemble for a fellowship dinner since the new Wesley Center was built enjoyed a bounteous potluck dinner and program by a "barbershop" quartet. The quartet members: Fred Wunderlich, John W. Biggers, John Schork and Bill Williams. All of the women who helped serve were dressed in cotton dresses and bonnets. Many of the men and women of the congregation also were in costume. The tables were set with coal oil lamps, glass spoon holders, garden flowers, and each napkin had its napkin ring.

The Rev. W. L. Cummins was presented with a fountain pen desk set by G. O. Davenport, speaking for the official board of the church. After a parade of those in costume on the stage, the winners for the lady and gentleman were Mrs. John Schork and Bill Biggers. They were presented with prizes for their best attire.

Friday evening was the Youth night and every part of that program was excellent from the youth choir to the older members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship. The consecration program was very impressive.

After the Sunday services the church membership will have a short respite from activities as the Harrisburg church will entertain the Annual Conference to be held May 24, 25, and 26.

Secretary Says Would Be Risk To U. S. Defense

Admiral Radford Accompanies Wilson To Senate Hearing

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson told senators today that any major cut in President Eisenhower's three billion dollar foreign military aid program "would present serious risks to the defense of the United States."

He said it also would require a complete overhaul of the U. S. defense budget, which was based on the expectation that arms aid would continue flowing to our allies.

Wilson testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in support of President Eisenhower's request for $4,900,000,000 in foreign aid funds for the year starting July 1. About three billion dollars would be for military aid. "To cut military assistance materially at this time," Wilson said, "would present serious risks to the defense of the United States and the free world and would require a complete re-evaluation of our international position and of our own military budgets."

Backs Up Plea

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, appeared with Wilson to back up the secretary's plea for the full amount of requested military aid funds. Radford told the committee that the sum asked for military aid "is not excessive."

"Any substantial reduction in this request would have seriously adverse effects upon the continued building of military strength in the free world and, at the same time, would have equally dangerous psychological repercussions," Radford said.

Wilson said America is now helping to support 200 divisions in allied armies, a force "several times the strength of our own army."

Allied air forces and navies also receive support and these forces are taken into account in determining America's defense requirements, he said. Without them, we would have to spend more on our own forces.

Both Wilson and Radford stressed the importance of the $30 million dollars included in the program for furnishing advanced weapons such as missiles to allies. They said it is important to furnish the first of these weapons as soon as possible so allied nations can begin training personnel to use them.

Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga.) last week wrote Wilson asking what economies might be made in the vast overseas military aid program through improved buying practices.

Hospital Costs Climb

Editorial

By KENNETH O. GILMORE
The financial headache of maintaining adequate hospital service across the country now promises to be chronic. For an authority warns that we can expect hospital costs to rise about five per cent annually for a number of years.

That is the prediction of Ray E. Brown, president of the American Hospital Association, who recently completed a study of hospital costs and services during the period 1946-1954.

Two sets of figures he has compiled vividly illustrate the expensive outlook.

"The average cost per patient for all short-term, general hospitals in the U. S. during 1946 was $9.39," says Dr. Brown in an article from the journal of the American Hospital Association. "By 1954 this cost has risen to $21.76, an increase of 132 per cent."

This skyrocketing cost essentially is sparked by the fact that hospitals are personal service institutions, according to Dr. Brown. It takes a lot more money to hire people these days, he says.

"Over the years ahead, as the general labor force continues to receive its rightful share of the proceeds from increased productivity, hospitals will be compelled to give equal increases in salary without comparable benefits from increased productivity," he notes.

Lack of competition for female help before World War II kept hospital wage scales low in those times. Now women, who make up 80 per cent of the average hospital's work force, are in much greater demand and their salaries must be upgraded to meet the going wage rates of industry.

Dr. Brown further states that between 1946 and 1954 the number of persons admitted to hospitals jumped from 10.3 to 12.6 out of each one hundred of the country's population.

He feels these statistics give evidence that the time has not arrived when "the public's ability to secure adequate hospital care is endangered by the mounting costs of that care."

This is encouraging. Yet it should not be concluded that every American is able to afford hospital care. And if rates were lower there is no telling how many persons would seek hospitalization.

Certainly a close watch must be kept to make sure hospital costs do not go beyond the reach of the majority of citizens.

At the same time Dr. Brown urges the public, as we do, to try and understand the reasons for hospital expenses and the need for judicious use of their services.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Marshal Zhukov's Visit To Washington Takes Shape; Ex-Governor Of Louisiana Emerges As Battler For Southern Negro; Louisiana Negroes Pray For Reinstatement Of Voting Rights.

WASHINGTON. — Plans for President Eisenhower to invite his wartime friend, Marshal Zhukov, together with Marshal Konev, to Washington just before election are progressing.

However, there is an important split among presidential advisers.
Ike's political advisers view such an invitation as a master stroke comparable to his famous announcement that he elected President he would go to Korea. The presence of Zhukov, his old Army buddy, and Marshal Konev would cause millions of voters to think twice before voting against a President who is able to talk on a first-name basis with Russia's top military leaders.

The American people have foremost on their minds the question of peace, according to these political advisers, and such a visit would seem a guarantee of peace.
Ike's foreign policy experts, however, are opposed. His military advisers also are dubious.
They fear such an invitation would lull the West to sleep; make it difficult to get sufficient military appropriations for defense by encouraging the belief that the Kremlin leaders are reasonable, peaceful men.

Odds are, however, that Zhu-kov and probably Konev will be invited to come to the U. S. A. around September.

WHITE DEFENDER

Southern bitterness over segregation has reached such intensity that few white Southerners with political influence have dared back that bitterness.

One exception is the former governor of Louisiana, James A.
Noe, who almost got into a fist fight in his home town, Monroe, when White Citizens Councils began disenfranchising between 4,000 and 4,500 Negroes.

They did this by claiming Negro voters had received help in making out their registration cards, especially in interpreting portions of the Constitution.

This aroused the dander of ex-Governor Noe. Going down to the parish registrar of voters, Mrs.
Mae Lucky, he challenged the right of the vote challengers to take Negro voters off the registration rolls.

"Let me see my card," he said.
"I didn't have my glasses the day I filled out my card, and I'm not sure I did it unassisted."

Noe claimed that any citizen who challenged a Negro's right to vote had to show evidence of a thorough investigation before the Negro could be disenfranchised.

He demanded that the Louisiana attorney general send a representative to Monroe to protect the rights of all citizens.

Arriving in Monroe, as a result, came Special Assistant Attorney General William M. Shaw.
"Are you a member of the White Citizens' Council?" asked Noe.

"Yes," replied Shaw.
"Are you," Shaw countered, "a member of the NAACP?"

At this, the big, bulky ex-governor of Louisiana hauled his 230 pounds around the table and almost let fly at Shaw. After some tense moments, calm was restored. However, when several hundred Negroes tried to get back their voting rights, they were kicked out of the courthouse by the sheriff and told that only 20 Negroes per day could examine their registration cards.

Since the elections are only two weeks off, this will permit only about 240 Negroes to attempt reinstatement. In the interim, Negroes are holding prayer meetings praying that their right to vote may be restored.

BUTTER SCANDAL

A brand new cheese and butter scandal is being quietly unfolded by Rep. L. H. Fountain of North Carolina and once again it looks like farmers were left holding the bag. As usual, food manufacturers got away with thousands of dollars in windfall profits.

The deal hinges on Secretary Benson's hiking of farm price supports on April 18, two days after like killed 90 per cent supports by vetoing the farm bill.

By Benson's action, the price paid cheese manufacturers by the Commodity Credit Corporation was raised one cent a pound, while butter went up two cents a pound. The purpose: to aid farmers by making it possible for manufacturers to pay them more for milk and butterfat.

However, Benson made the increased prices retroactive to April 1. This made the new support levels applicable to all cheese and butter produced during the first half of April, which was still lying around in manufacturers' warehouses as of April 18.

Why Benson did this is a mystery, since not a penny of the retroactive payments to cheese and butter manufacturers could possibly benefit a farmer who had sold his milk to a manufacturer prior to April 18. For the manufacturer, on the other hand, the retroactive payments meant a profitable windfall.

Whether the big butter manufacturers had any advance knowledge of this price increase is something which Rep. Fountain wants to investigate. He is suspicious of the fact that for two weeks preceding Benson's April 18 announcement, butter men were selling butter to the Commodity Credit Corporation at the snail-like rate of only 600,000 pounds a day.

Then on April 23, right after the price-rise announcement, they dumped butter on Mr. Benson to the tune of 4,300,000 pounds in one day. The two-cent increase is retroactive for all butter produced after April 1 and not sold to the CCC.

Ban on Sale of Unpasteurized Milk Begins July 1

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—A ban on sale of unpasteurized milk for human consumption goes into effect in Illinois July 1, Public Health Director Dr. Roland R. Cross reminded the state today.

The law, passed by the 1955 Legislature, includes an exception for milk sold by the producer on his own farm.

Cross said the Public Health Department which will administer the law will make regular investigations of raw milk supplies to insure compliance.

He said "there is no substitute for pasteurization as a safety factor of milk and the State Department of Public Health does not recommend the drinking of unpasteurized milk."

About 95 per cent of the milk now sold for human consumption in Illinois is pasteurized, Cross said.

He said producers who sell unpasteurized milk on their own farms must observe two requirements: The milk must be free of sediment and must come from cows that have been tested for brucellosis and tuberculosis.

drawers at the U. S. Information Agency.

The sleuths planted a bottle of perfume and a pack of chewing gum on a desk as bait. They dusted the chewing gum with an invisible dust that shows up brilliantly under ultraviolet light.

It wasn't long before the perfume and gum disappeared. The detectives, armed with an ultraviolet lamp, then launched a search for the culprit.

When they flashed the light in one lady's face, her mouth glowed brightly—telltale evidence she had been chewing the stolen gum.

Then on April 23, right after the price-rise announcement, they dumped butter on Mr. Benson to
the tune of 4,300,000 pounds in one
day. The two-cent increase is retroactive for all butter produced
after April 1 and not sold to the

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service

THROUGH recent years the word "CARE" has started at us from car cards and billboards. We have been urged to give thought to the needs and living conditions of unknown human beings in the down-trodden countries of Europe. We have been urged not only to consider their plight, but to care about their deprivations. The word "care" has a very personal connotation. It seems to recognize individuals rather than masses of population or crowds of people. A sense of care challenges us to accept a personal responsibility for helping people we know or want to know.

In this program we have sent gifts to individuals who have appreciated the personal touch. Many friendships and bonds have grown up between widely separated people because of the Care program. That is as it should be. We must care about and for others, not as nations but as brothers and as fellow children of God.

Here, too, in our own nation where there is so much indifference we must care about others. We must know how people affect us and how we affect them. But even more than merely knowing, we must care how we affect and influence other people.

When we care about people, we do something about our relationships, and about our own conduct. We become more friendly and more productive of the better things of life when we "love our neighbors as ourselves."

Old Fort Okanagan, established by John Jacob Astor in 1811, is said to be the oldest settlement in the state of Washington.

Social Security Benefits Payable When Worker Dies

If a worker in your family dies, ask if survivors benefits are payable. E. Bishop Hill, district manager of the Harrisburg social security district office, states that each year there are some benefits that are not claimed by the survivors of insured workers. This is particularly true when the deceased worker is a female or when a male worker is not survived by a widow or close relative.

The Social Security Act provides that a lump-sum death payment can be made in every case if the worker was insured at the time of his death. An application for this payment must be filed within two years after the wage earner's death. The lump-sum death payment is paid to the worker's surviving spouse, provided they were living together at the time of the worker's death. If there is no surviving spouse, then it is payable as reimbursement to the person or persons that paid the deceased worker's burial expenses.

In addition to the lump-sum death payment, monthly benefits may be payable to the deceased wage earner's children under 18 years of age; and to his widow, regardless of her age, if she has minor children of the wage earner in her care. When the last child reaches age 18, if the widow is still under 65 years of age, her benefit is stopped—to be resumed when she becomes 65, provided she has not remarried. Under some conditions, monthly payments are possible to dependent widowers, at age 65.

In cases where the wage earner leaves no minor children and no surviving spouse, if he was contributing as much as fifty per cent of the support of his parents, monthly benefits may be payable to them when they reach age 65.

Mr. Hill explained that social security benefits are not automatic. Applications must be filed for all types of benefits. He urges that in the event of the death of a worker, soon afterwards someone should contact the nearest social security office and find out whether survivors benefits are payable.

MORE PRECIOUS THAN RUBIES OR PEARLS

When a loved one is ill or in pain, you wait eagerly for the medicine which your doctor has prescribed to ease distress or bring back health again. Is there a scale to measure the worth of the tiny tablets or the relief that flows from the prescription bottle?

Today's miracle drugs—the antibiotics, cortisone, vitamins, tranquilizers—may seem to be high in price. But the sicknesses they cure once meant days or weeks of home or hospital care, expensive surgery, a long period of agony . . . or worse. Are not then today's medicines worth more than rubies or pearls?

When you are inclined to complain about the price of some medicine, remember, that it probably cost millions of dollars to develop. Remember, too, that prescription prices have gone up less than half of other consumer items since 1939. But above all, remember how precious is the blessed comfort these medicines give—and what you would do without them.

Bring those precious prescriptions to our pharmacy to fill. You will get exactly what your doctor ordered.

Castle Asks Court To Dismiss Rehearing Petition by Wright

SPRINGFIELD (UP) — Atty. Gen. Latham Castle today asked the Illinois Supreme Court to dismiss a petition by State Treasurer Warren E. Wright for a rehearing on a decision which cleared the way for sale of 415 million dollars in toll highway bonds.

Wright contends that as state treasurer he should be only the custodian of toll road funds and not be involved in the bond sale in any way.
